NKJ calls for networks in plant health and alternative protein

We can change the future with your help! NKJ calls for networks with focus on plant health and alternative protein sources, issues really at the edge of environmental development in a close future. However, if you have an idea for a network with some other focus related to Nordic agriculture and food research, don't hesitate to apply!

Nordic potential for sustainable biomass production

Climate change, fossil fuels, greenhouse gases... We need to find ways leading to a sustainable future. To provide guidance on this matter, Nordic Forest Research (SNS), Nordic Agri Research (NKJ) and Nordic Energy Research (NER) have produced a policy brief: Sustainable use of biomass for heating and transport fuel.

Is an increased use of biomass compatible with food supply, wood products, biodiversity, land use and other environmental goals? This policy brief aims to contribute to the current debate on the important but complicated issue of sustainable use of biomass.
