Open calls for networking activities in agriculture

We need to change the way we produce, consume and think about food; we need a new food narrative that acknowledges system issues in agriculture – from broken nutrient cycles, to biodiversity loss, erosion, fossil fuel dependence and CO₂ emissions – interlinked issues that could in part be solved at a regional level.

NKJ encourages networks that relate to aspects of transformation and transition in agriculture and the food system at large to apply for funding.

Deadline for application is April 21, 2022.

See also NordForsks call with a similar focus area! Deadline for application is May 19, 2022.

NKJ network gets proposal accepted

The NKJ researcher network Bridge Builders has arranged their second workshop in Stavanger with good results and very satisfied participants.

The main goal for the workshop was to plan and co-write an abstract/presentation proposal for ICCAS 2022. The proposal has been accepted!
